THE ARMED IN ASIATIC TURKEY.

ESKISEH, May 10.—Moukhtar Pasha is at Bar-

sia, sixty miles north of Novorossiysk. The Russian centre is awaiting news respecting the advance of two wings from Barzan and Ardahan.

A TURKISH REPORT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 10.—The journals report that the Russians before Kars and Ardahan have retreated toward the frontier.

LONDON, May 10.—A Turkish dispatch, dated Er-

serson, Wednesday, 10 p.m., makes no mention of any fighting. It reports that the Russian column which was going down the line of the Turko-Persian frontier, in the direction of Van, has stopped at Rossuk, on account of the impracticability of the country and lack of supplies.

The press of the same date takes the same position.

A TURKISH PASSING.

SHERIFF, May 10.—A great many Russian

SICKNESS IN THE TURKISH ARMY.

LONDON, May 10.—A Turkish dispatch says the day before the Turkish attack on the Montenegro position is explained by the great want of supplies, and ravages of typhus, scurvy, and other diseases. The Turks try to conceal this; but they are good authority for stating that

2,000 troops are sick in Mostar, and the same epidemic raged in the camp at Scutari. The calling out of the militia, which includes all male Bosnian and Herzegovinian

Moslemes from 15 to 90 years of age, meets with stubborn opposition in the rural districts.

PEACEABLE.

LONDON, May 10.—A Turkish dispatch says the war between Turkey and Russia is to be ended by a truce.

The most important events of her reign are the wars with the Turks, Catherine the Great, who was deposed by his life by conspirators in 1801. He was succeeded by his son Alexander, who was assassinated by his second brother, Constantine, whom he had named his successor. This succession was succeeded by his son, Nicholas, who was succeeded by his son, Alexander, under whom Russia has again become a leading industrial power than ever before.

GROWTH OF RUSSIAN POWER. The growth of Russia is remarkable. In 1855, 200,000 geographical square miles; 1725, at the death of Peter the Great, 1,000,000 square miles; 1855, 2,000,000 geographical square miles; 1725, at the death of Peter the Great, 1,000,000 square miles; 1855, 2,000,000 geographical square miles without Russia's North America. After the war of 1855, Russia's North America was lost for want of roads alone, the Russian Government devoted itself to internal improvements. The cost of construction and political disadvantages arising from an inundation were population, were prominent. The total population of the Empire, which in 1798 had been only 15,000,000, in 1855 had increased to 60,000,000, and to 65,000,000 in 1865, and less than 44,000,000 of serfs belonging to the crown, to nobles, and to private proprietors, were now owned by the landowners and belonged to the land, which had originally belonged to their ancestors and were transferred to them. The serfs did little to protect them against tyranny and oppression, and nothing to strengthen the nation. The sum of money compensation to the proprietors of the serfs received land, subject to an annual rent of 10% of its value, and the serfs will become landowners. In 1855 serfdom still exists in Russia. Contemporaneously with the growth of Russia, the growth of the Empire, the Baltic and the Black Seas, the South, the West, the East, the chain of railroads, and the steam-engine will bring the Cossacks of the Volga to the frontiers of Germany.

AN HISTORIC PARALLEL, NINETEEN AND TWENTY-ODD YEARS AGO.

The events now occurring in the East are such as to suggest comparison with the position of affairs just prior to the great struggle which began in 1855 and closed with the oft-quoted Treaty of Paris in 1856. It is remarkable how many points of coincidence there are in the comparison. It is remarkable, also, that in a country where it is rare to find ominous reflection that the circumstances which now exist in the East are of almost precisely the same character as those which in 1855 emboldened nearly the whole of Europe in a bloody and protracted contest.

CIVIL-SERVICE REFORM. The most important change adopted in the system of Civil-Servic examination by the Interior Department, which has been carried out in the examination of candidates for the posts of minor civil service, consists in submitting to each of the canidio a business letter which he is required to brief. It is believed this will greatly assist the government in the selection of the most capable and efficient civil servants.

ARMED FORCES. The experience of our troops in the progress of affairs, however, has limited the establishment of a Russian protectorate over Hungary and the Danube, and the present situation in the Balkans is very similar to that of 1855.

THE DISCUSSIONS WHICH TOOK PLACE IN ENGLAND. The discussions which took place in England prior to the outbreak of hostilities in 1855 offer many points of resemblance with the present situation in the Balkans and the present during the last few months. There is this marked difference, however, that in 1855 the English were not prepared for an armed intervention, and the popular feeling against the creation of the Turks, and the Russian forces were over nearly the same lines of attack as we are now. The English, however, were not prepared for a war of a quarter of a century ago, may become again the centers of interest.

CURRENT GOSSEIP.

O BE NOT THE FIRST.
Be not the last to discover
In the faith of a lover
Whose heart may prove true in the end.

We some of us know one another,
As oft is error we fall;

Then let us speak well of our brother,
Or speak not about him at all.

A smile or sigh may awaken
Suspicion more false and undue;

And thus our faith may be shaken
In the hearts that honest and true.

A CITY "CORNERED."
How often the light smile of gladness
Is worn by friends that we meet,
To cover a soul full of sadness,
Too proud to acknowledge defeat.

How often the sigh of dejection
Is heaved from the hypocrite's breast,

To parody truth and lie.

Or fall a sacrifice to rest.

AM PARK, April 27.—PAUL F. SCHAFER.

MILLE, GEORGES AND THE MOUJIKS.

The former director of one of the Paris theatres has been accused of being a party to the Figaro, a series of stage comedies. Referring to the French battles at Constantinople and St. Petersburg, and discussing the probability of their remaining open or of their being closed while in progress, he said: "What took place in the latter city is not known to me, but the hand of the French was evident, and after the battle off the Old Men, at the mouth of the Arno, the French were evidently beaten, as were others, and the bridge about thirty feet from the town could be found, as far as I can see, in several places." He added: "The English were somewhat prodded, and the French were evidently stiffered out as well. We found a syringe, a piece of wire, a small pocket knife, a leather wallet containing 28 cents, and the memorandum book was also addressed."

MARCE'S LAST ACT.—A man appeared to be of about 35 years of age, light hair, eyes, and moustache, a week's growth, and was dressed in a dark suit, a white collar with black buttons, and black shoes with buckled shoes, and black stockings. He was not seen or observed. One said he had contradicted all the suppositions that he had been killed, and that no other scoundrel was the author of the dead man, where as it was a common opinion that no person can be a scoundrel who is not in his bare desk without leaving.

DODIN VINDICATED.—May 10.—The Senate Wood Committee reported, in every way concurred in by the Senate, was unable to find anything in the testimony of William which was of value to the other side. The committee's refusal to answer the questions of the Senate on the point that he was able to furnish any evidence to sustain the charges against him, was pronounced foundation.

HEART DISEASE.

May 10.—John Lynch, of the Wolf River Transportation, to-day very suddenly and strangely, has a raft of logs in the river, when downed and fell through a hole in the middle, clapping before several others, who were under the raft, but he was extricated, he was not believed, he was the son of a prominent lumberman and boatman, and his interests in this section.

FATIGUE MEN IN NEW YORK.

One of young men is slightly fatigued in New York, and is unable to tell why. It was enough for their fathers to do that. The family estate is large, and are they not entitled to a share of it? An allowance of $3,000 to $5,000 a year is reasonable enough, if it is not?

CHICAGO MARKET SUMMARY.

The Chicago produce markets were generally easier yesterday, with less demand, and prices ranging from $12 per bushel lower, at $14.85 to $14.875, for June and $15.00 for July. Land closed 17½¢ per 100 lbs. lower, at $30.50¢ for June and $30.62¢ for July. Meats were dull, at 5¢ per lb. for loose shoulders. "The Pig" was steady, and 75¢ per lb. short ribs. Butter was quite firm, at 10¢ per gallon. Flour was quiet and steady. Wheat closed 5¢ higher, at $1.06¢ for May and $1.08¢ for June. Corn closed 5¢ lower, at $35.40 cash and $34.50 for June. Oats closed 5¢ lower, at $44.00 cash and $44.00 for June. Barley closed 5¢ lower, at $41.00 cash and $41.00 for May. Hogs were quiet and $2.10 lower, with sales of poor to extra at $2.10 to $2.50. Cattle were active and stronger, selling at $3.35 to $3.60. Sheep were firm and unchanged. One hundred dollars in gold would buy $107.15¢ in greenbacks at the close.

Greenbacks at the New York Stock Exchange yesterday closed at 98¢.

The opening of the Permanent Exhibition at Philadelphia yesterday in the Main Building was an eventful affair. The President and a portion of his Cabinet, Gen. GRANT, and a large number of notables assisted in the inauguration of the enterprise. The exhibition promises to be an important addition to the points of interest in Philadelphia.

The Sultan has issued an edict deposing the Prince of Roumania. The latter however, will continue as the visible head of his Principality, having taken the command of the army preparatory to assuming the offensive as an auxiliary of the Russian forces. It would not be at all remarkable if the Prince of Roumania should have an important share in deposing the Sultan.

The marine underwriters of London suffered their most serious loss for a year or more in the wreck of the steamship Dakota on the rocks at Point Limas, forty-five miles from Liverpool. The vessel alone was worth $450,000. There is no news of the missing City of Brussels and her precious human freight. Hope of her safety is rapidly dying out in London, where the speculative rule of insurance upon the overdue vessel advanced yesterday from 15 to 40 guineas per cent.

The striking cooper of Cleveland yesterday came in conflict with the majesty of the law in the form of a detachment of police, and were forcibly put to rout after they had refused to obey an order to disperse. They had undertaken to prevent the operation of an inflexible law—the supply of a demand for workmen to fill the places themselves had vacated. Aside from withdrawing themselves in a body from the shop where they were employed, they attempted to shut out from employment a large number of men who were willing and anxious to work for the wages. The law says this shall not be done—that no man shall hinder another from earning his daily bread. The Cleveland strikers learned a lesson which their brothers throughout the country will do well to heed, and abandon the idea that labor troubles can be settled by violence and intimidation practiced upon men who are willing to work.

The fight for the removal of Collector MERRIMAN, of the Eighth Internal Revenue District of Illinois, is becoming quite interesting. The Collector is now on the ground in Washington, ready and anxious to meet the charge of the persons who have interested themselves in bringing about a change. The records, so far as they cast any light on the question, show Collector MERRIMAN to have been a very efficient officer, and it will require something besides the mere assertion of derogatory charges by parties personally interested in his removal to gain the desired object. It is no longer a term of reproach in official circles in Washington to be called a "Bastard man;" and as this is one of the charges against Collector MERRIMAN, he is quite certain of a fair and full hearing, and an opportunity to show the merits which prompted this concerted movement for his displacement.

The perfect unanimity of sentiment on the subject of the Eastern situation which was declared to prevail in the English Cabinet seems to have been of a sort that frequently breaks up Governments and renders necessary a new deal in the Ministry. The London correspondent of the Liverpool Post has learned, evidently on the best of authority, that at the time of the introduction of Mr. Gladstone's resolutions the Cabinet was on the verge of the fatal abyss which THOMAS CARLYLE so earnestly warned the nation of in his vigorous letter of a week ago. DIAZELLS and DENNY were fierce for a violent and sensational stroke of policy—not less than the armed occupation of Constantinople and the possession of the Bosphorus by the British fleet. The Gladstone resolutions, the letter of CARLYLE, and the monster demonstration in St. James' Square came in the nick of time to prevent this bold and uncommodified demonstration on the side of Turkey. Four members of the Cabinet—Lord SALISBURY, Sir STAFFORD NORTHCOCK, Lord CARNAVAN, and Mr. CROSS—threatened a withdrawal if this warlike policy were carried into effect, and BRACONFIELD was compelled to choose between a dissolution of the Ministry and the abandonment of his bill. The difficulty was bridged over. The Liberals thus were the means of delaying, if they have not wholly prevented, the step which would involve England in the war as the foes of Russia and the ally of Turkey. It is to be seen whether their success will be permanent.

There is no comfort in Washington for the whisky-thieves in any part of the country. Secretary SHERMAN will not even let bygones be bygones, as Messrs. LAWRENCE and REED are daily discovering in their efforts to effect a comfortable arrangement for the "first batch." There is a restless and energetic tendency manifested in the Treasury Department to review and as far as possible undo some of the performances of the preceding Administration in reference to the whisky cases. The fact that in Chicago the natural protectors of the Government's interests somehow managed to reverse their positions and get on the side of the thieves does not necessarily imply that this is to be the end of the wretched business; and the same is true of some of the peculiar compromises that were effected in St. Louis. Secretary SHERMAN proposes to set at the bottom of these transactions, and the distillers begin to wonder if there is any such thing as rest for the weary under the present order of that great Washington.

THE PRESIDENT'S POLICY.

It may not be out of the way to direct the special attention of that class of partisans who think that the organization of the Republican party as an officeholding community is of an importance paramount to the welfare of the country to the reply made by the President to a well-known newspaper editor in Cleveland. When this Cleveland editor represented to the President that his Southern policy would be likely to result in a defeat of the Republican party in Ohio at the October election (giving as a reason that the Republicans would stand over the district is a proceeding which can hardly be justified). In some Republican districts, the majority may lose what they consider a legitimate portion of the party spoils; but in the adjoining districts their party friends in a minority will make a corresponding gain. So that, after all, in a more party sense, the losses and gains will be equalized, but there will be the great general advantage that in each of the thirteen districts the President is reported to have secured the votes of the people. There will be a Republican Judge in the Adams, Pike, Sangamon, and Crawford circuits, and a Democrat in the Wimberley, Vermillion, Kankakee, and Rock Island circuits. The general confidence and the popular respect for the Courts can hardly fail to be increased by the obliteration of exclusive party selections of the Judges.

THE ENGLISH DRIFT TOWARDS WAR.

The letters which we printed in our last issue from Mr. SNAPEY and MONCKTON D. CONWAY, two very close observers, and the general tenor of the dispatches, clearly indicate the steady drift of England into war with Russia, notwithstanding the various and conservative declarations of the Home Secretary in the GLADSTONE debate, to the effect that the Government will maintain the strictest neutrality between the contending Powers, while it maintains its own interests, and is conscious of its own earnest desire for peace. Mr. SNAPEY says positively to the purpose of carrying the State of Ohio or any other State at the October election, and that he will not accept any temporary defect in any local election as a sign of the popular disapproval of his course, or as the final determination of the political status of the country, or as the ultimate effect of his policy on the Republican party. In this no sane man will dispute him; the infatuated office-seekers and the desperate partisans alone may deny it. In withdrawing the United States troops from the probably unconstitutional and certainly unwise employment of sustaining State Governments that cannot stand alone; in dissensions that have lasted for years, with a guarantee of civil and political rights for the blacks from the only people who can enforce them; in squeezing down the number of offices to the smallest number, and reducing the number of officeholders to a working-force; in cutting down the army 2,500 men; in establishing a tenure of office in the civil service during good behavior and efficient work; in refusing to condone the offenses against of hostilities of Russia; has occasioned an outburst of English animosity against her, which is to be called the "anti-Russian" feeling. All dispositions are thrown off. The foolish and purpose of the Anti-Turkish party, steadily maintained from the beginning, are at last openly proclaimed. They mean nothing less than that England should once more fight the battle of the Crimean war.

The English are sung embodying the sentiments that should occasion again arise for protecting English interests, she will be found beside the Turk, and aiding him in his efforts. The same has been received with cheer. It is common to hear "Anti-Turks? I don't believe in them!" or "I think of what Russia did in Poland."

There is reason to believe, however, that the Cleveland editor has not fairly represented the people of Ohio in saying that the State will be lost to the Republicans in October by reason of the President's policy.

President HARRIS is probably doing what he believes the welfare of the country demands, and not trying to conciliate some disappointed and selfish partisans.
